DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is response to Applicants filed Appeal Brief on 01/01/2007.

Response to Arguments

2. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on 11/06/2006, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new ground rejection set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

3. Claims 1-11 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the bodies of claims 1, 5 and 8 in view of MPEP 2106 (IV)(C)(2)((2)) (Practical Application that produces a

Art Unit: 2162

Useful, Concrete, and Tangible Result) sections (a, b, and c) are non statutory because they are lacking of real world useful result. They are missing the steps or processes producing any useful result to the invention, of having a utility to convey the final result achieved by the claimed invention, that is, they are not producing a result tied to the real/physical world or this application is not a practical application. That is, these claims are missing "utility requirement" of 35 U.S.C. 101 (MPEP 2107.01), these claims must show that the claimed invention is "useful" for some purpose either explicitly or implicitly (Fisher, 421, F.3d 1356, 76 USPQ2d at 1230 and 1225 (Fed. Cir. 2005). In addition, when the examiner has reason to believe that the claim is not for a practical application that produces a useful result, the claim should be rejected, thus requiring the applicant to distinguish the claim from the three 35 U.S.C. 101 judicial exceptions to patentable subject matter by specifically reciting in the claim the practical application. In such cases, statements in the specification describing a practical application may not be sufficient to satisfy the requirements for section 101 with respect to the claimed invention. Likewise, a claim that can be read so broadly as to include statutory and nonstatutory subject matter must be amended to limit the claim to a practical application. In other words, if the specification discloses a practical application of a section 101 judicial exception, but the claim is broader than the disclosure such that it does not require a practical application, then the claim must be rejected.

More specifically, the claimed subject matter provides for "managing said junction table responsive to changing relationships with others of said related object", and "performing said stored directive only if the opposite directive has not been stored in said buffer associated with said related object". This produced result remains in the abstract and, thus, fails to achieve the required status of having real world value or to be realized as "useful result".

Claim 1, "an object persistent management system" does not fall into one of 4 categories under 35 USC statutory subject matter. Thus is non-statutory.

Claims 5 and 8, in line 4 and line 8 of claim 5 and line 5 and 9 of claim 8, "buffer" is a temporary storage, which is a functional descriptive material or as descriptive per se.

Claim 8, "a machine readable storage" having stored thereon a computer program, which comprising a set of instructions (software per se) ... That is, this program of instructions stored on a computer-readable medium or storage media causing (not positively or directly executed by a machine or a physical article or objects). Thus is also a functional descriptive material, a non-statutory subject matter.

6. The claims lack the necessary physical articles or objects to constitute a machine or a manufacture within the meaning of 35 USC 101. They are clearly not a series of steps or act to be a process nor are they a combination of chemical compounds to be a composition of matter. As such, they fail to fall within a statutory category. They are, at best, functional descriptive material per se.

Descriptive material can be characterized as either "functional descriptive material" or "nonfunctional descriptive material." Both types of "descriptive material" are nonstatutory when claimed as descriptive material per se, 33 F.3d at 1360, 31 USPQ2d at 1759. When functional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium, it becomes structurally and functionally interrelated to the medium and will be statutory in most cases since use of technology permits the function of the descriptive material to be realized. Compare In re Lowry, 32 F.3d 1579, 1583-84, 32 USPQ2d 1031, 1035 (Fed. Cir. 1994)

Art Unit: 2162

Merely claiming nonfunctional descriptive material, i.e., abstract ideas, stored on a computer-readable medium, in a computer, or on an electromagnetic carrier signal, does not make it statutory. See Diehr, 450 U.S. at 185-86, 209 USPQ at 8 (noting that the claims for an algorithm in Benson were unpatentable as abstract ideas because "[t]he sole practical application of the algorithm was in connection with the programming of a general purpose computer.").

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

7. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

8. Claims 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Because these claims recite the limitation "performing said stored directive only if the opposite directive has not been stored in said buffer associated with said related object". It is incomplete or indefinite statement.

9. Claims 8-11 recites the limitation "a machine readable storage" in the first line of claim 8, 9, 10 and 11. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. That is, it is not defined in the application specification.

(NEGATIVE LIMITATION)

10. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

11. Claims 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Because the “negative limitation” in lines 7-8 of claim 5 and in line 8-9 of claim 8, “performing said stored directive only if the opposite directive has not been stored in said buffer associated with said related object.” is not support in the instant specification. Any claim containing a negative limitation must have basis in the original disclosure. (MPEP 2173.05 (i)). Applicant is advised to amend the claim to clarify it and for their intended use in order to one of ordinary skill in the art to make use the invention as claimed. Applicant is reminded that no new subject matter should be added.
